Elusive Solon Powell Faces Capitol Wrath

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Adam Clayton Powell returns to Washington from sunny Puerto Rico he is liable to find the capital can be just as warm—even in winter.

For the Democratic chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee will have to face the wrath of his committtee colleagues, the scorn of a senator and the displeasure of the administration.

Powell, 53, who is equally at home in the pulpit of the Negro Baptist church he heads in New York City, the political clubs of Harlem, and the plush night clubs of two continents, has managed to outrage the sensibilities of an impressive number of people in the past.

Bringing Disrepute?

A combination of charm, gall and pride has enabled him to act as if he couldn't even hear their angry cries. Now that he has stirred up so many antagonists at once, these traits may not be enough to keep out the rising din of criticism.

The soft voice of Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., rising from the Senate floor, has spoken loudest, calling Powell an authority on "adult delinquency," criticizing his trip abroad with two "lady friends" at government expense and questioning the propriety of several government financial transactions favorable to Powell.

The muttered comments of Education and Labor Committee members, who feel he has now outdone himself in shirking responsibility, could prove far more wounding to the prideful Powell.

Potentially most threatening of all to his continued jaunty progress through the House is the still unspoken feeling of some members that Powell is bringing all Congress into disrepute and must be curbed.

Disappears Tuesday

His latest troubles began last week. On Monday everything seemed fine. Powell energetically opened an announced two weeks of hearings on President Kenneday's big education bill, fulfilling a promise made to the administration to get right to work on the important measure.

On Tuesday he disappeared.

There is no way of knowing if he had learned Williams was going to take the Senate floor that day. However, Powell's favorite method of dealing with such problems has been to make himself unavailable to the press. At any rate, he flew to his home in Puerto Rico, where a spokesman said Sunday night he was just resting and talking to no one.

It may be that Powell deserted the hearings because as little sympathy for the administration's decision to wrap 24 major education proposals into one super-bill with a $5.3-billion price tag, putting it in his lap with orders to consider it as one measure.

Whatever the reason, his absence caused the badly divided, leaderless committee to come apart at the seams, nearly wrecking the hearings, and further diminishing the already slim chances for the bill, much to the administration's distress.

Red China Snubs Soviet Overture For Peace Talks

TOKYO (AP) — Red China rebuffed a Soviet Union overture for peace talks today, demanding that the Kremlin dump Yugoslavia as the price of such a meeting.

"There can be no reversing the verdict repudiating the modern revisionists of Yugoslavia," declared the Peking People's Daily, voice of the Chinese Communist party.

The editorial, broadcast in part by Peking radio, obviously replied to the bid by the Soviet Communist party Sunday for talks by Soviet and Red Chinese authorities as a prelude to any world conference on the Communist rift. It hinted that the Russians seek a meeting between Premier Khrushshev and Mao Tze-tung.

Peking called two weeks ago for an international Communist gathering to stem a disunity trend which, it said, has brought the Red bloc to "the brink of the precipice." But the People's Daily balked at Moscow's suggestion of a preliminary meeting between the Red powers.

The paper insisted there must be no deviation from the theme set by the 1957 and 1960 Moscow meetings of Communist parties which denounced Yugoslav "revisionism" as the chief menace to communism.

"The revolutinary forces of the world will under no circumstances permit the export of counter-revolution by the Tito group; differences in the international Communist movement should be resolved only on the basis of the Moscow declaration and the Moscow statement," the paper said.

Khrushchev has welcomed Tito back into the Kremlin family since then The two have been Peking's chief antagonists in the ideological battle between Khrushchev's policy of peaceful competition with the capitalist world and Mao's policy that the capitalists will have to be overcome by war.

The Soviet Communist party organ Pravda, in a long editorial Sunday insisted that any world conference should be preceded by Soviet-Chinese talks to "clear away all the extraneous and irrelevant stuff."

First Family Sets Pace In Exercise

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was a vigorous weekend on the New Frontier. President Kennedy took his wife on three short hikes and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy walked 50 miles in 17 hours—all in the cause of physical fitness.

Ethel Kennedy, the attorney general's wife, added to the aura of vitality by declaring she'd welcome twins to the busy routine of her family of seven.

But Ethel, who is expecting her eighth child in June, added there is no medical evidence to indicate twins are in the offing.

The one discordant note was sounded by Joan Kennedy, wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Joan wrote in Look magazine that the President, because of persistent back trouble, can barely pick up his 2-year-old son, Jr.

Started By T. R.

Reporting that young John now weighs about 35 pounds, the White House said "the President's back is improving but his son is getting heavier."

If President Kennedy's back is slowing him down, this wasn't evident Sunday during his three walks with the first lady.

Kennedy set such a brisk pace that it almost seemed he was training for a 50-mile hike of his own.

Fifty miles became a magic number on the New Frontier after Kennedy leanned about a 1908 executive order in which President Theodore Roosevelt proclaimed this distance an appropriate fitness tests for Marine officers.

At the President's suggestion, 20 Marines will take the Roosevelt test at Camp Lejeune Tuesday. On Friday, volunteers from the White House staff and press corps ill embark on a similar expedition.

Robert Kennedy jumped the gun on these endeavors Saturday by walking 50 miles from Washington toward Thurmont, Md. The 37-year-old attorney general was accompanied by four aides who faltered before the finish line.

Goes Ice Skating

The attorney general reached his destination at 11 p.m., attended a 9 a.m. Roman Catholic Mass the next morning, and then went ice skating.

President Kennedy and the First Lady started their walking binge in New York, where they spent a weekend of theater-going, fancy eating and partying.

After attending a 12:30 p. m. Mass in uptown Manhattan, the Kennedys and her sister, Lee Radziwill, hiked three blocks down Park Ayenue to a fashionable French restaurant, Voisin. Lee had to trot at one point to keep up.

The President had a training-table portion of steak at the restaurant and Mrs. Kennedy dined on eggs benedict. Then the threesome set out again, this time walking five blocks up Park Avenue.

Returning to Washington just before dusk, the presidential limousine pulled to the curb about a quarter-mile from the White House and the Kennedys emerged for their third walk. The route lay across the park south of the executive mansion, with the grass soggy enough to present a problem for Mrs. Kennedy in her high-heeled shoes. Kennedy took her arm to help her.

Through all this walking, with temperatures in the high 30s, Kennedy was bareheaded and wore no topcoat. He carried a hat which he waved at startled pedestrians and motorists who, spying him, gave a honk or a holler.

Anti-Kennedy Theme Lined Up By Rockefeller

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller appears to be methodically sharpening his disagreements with President Kennedy in anticipa- of a possible 1964 presidential contest.

Politicians think the governor also is lining up with what they regard as the majority position of Republicans on major domestic and international issues.

Since his inaugural for a second term Rockefeller has been growing increasingly critical of Kennedy in terms that parallel those used by GOP senators and House members.

The governor sounded a familiar GOP Capitol Hill theme in Chicago over the weekend when he blamed the Democratic administration for "the present disarray within the Atlantic Alliance."

His recital of difficulties with Britain over the Skybolt missile, with Canada over nuclear warheads, with President Charles de Gaulle over French Common Market action and rejection of Polaris missiles sounded remarkably like attacks launched simultaneously by Republicans of widely various viewpoints.

Sen. John G Tower, R-Tex., a conservative, criticized many of the administration's same actions and concluded its handling of world problems presents "a dim picture for American foreign affairs."

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., who classes himself as a progressive, said the administration seems determined that the United States be neutral to its enemies, friendly to the neutralists and hostile to its friends. He said the State Department "fumbled and bumbled" dealings with Canada.

Along with Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a potential opponent for the 1964 GOP nomination, and Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., a Rockefeller supporter, the New York governor has said the administration's position on Soviet strength in Cuba has left many unanswered questions.

Rockefeller pleased nearly all of the Republicans when he assailed what he labeled as Kennedy's dismal failure to carry out economic and civil rights pledges made in the 1960 campaign.

He has taken the same tack as some other influential Republicans in contending that Kennedy's tax program fails to provide for the kind of increase in industrial investment he says is necessary to lift the economy.

If in his news conferences and speeches Rockefeller consciously is widening the gap between the President and himself and narrowing it between other Republicans and himself, politicians generally credit him with a craftsman-like job.

Freeze Follows Fresh Snowfall

By The Associated Press

A fresh snowfall blanketed Michigan today and it's apt to be preserved for a time.

On the heels of an overnight snow of 1 to 3 inches across the state, the U.S. Weather Bureau predicted sub-normal cold for the next five days.

Temperatures are expected to average 8 to 13 degrees below normal in Southern Michigan and 7 to 11 below normal in the Upper Peninsula.

Normal highs in the south range from 22 to 30 degrees and lows from 2 to 20, depending on the areas. In Upper Michigan the normal ranges are 22 to 28 and 2 to 12.

Archbishop Freed By Russians After 18 Years In Jail

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The release of Ukrainian Archbishop Josyf Slipyi — pronounced Yo-sif Slee-pee — after 18 years of Soviet imprisonment underlines a major shift in relations between the Vatican and the Communist world.

The change, under way at least for months, by no means spells the end of tension between the Roman Catholic Church and the Kremlin, but signs of definite improvement are in the air.

Pope John XXIII received Archbishop Slipyi, 70-year-old metropolitan of Lwow for Ukrainian-rite Catholics, in private audience a few hours after his return to freedom

The archbishop had not been heard from for years. There had been reports that he was dead. Vatican officials reported that the pontiff wept with joy.

Asian Flu Spreads Inland From East

Sunny Southern California Soaked After 300 Dry Days

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California went more than 300 days without a real storm. Then, with thunder, lightning, torrents of rain and snow in the mountains, it got one which:

Caused five traffic deaths Sunday on rain-slick roads and freeways.

Brought up to 8 inches of rain in suburban foothills.

Flooded hundreds of intersections and temporarily blocked many major arteries.

Sent angry seas surging against the beaches. At Venice the sea devoured the 180-foot-wide strand and undermined a parking lot beyond. "The beach is gone," a lifeguard dispatcher said.

Cars Trapped In Mud

In Glendale a wire-mesh check dam failed in a steep canyon and a tide of mud and debris spilled agross streets and lawns. Police said 50 cars were trapped in the mud.

Water ran knee-deep in scores of homes in the low-lying southern part of Los Angeles, and sheriff's deputies used boats to evacuate many. The Red Cross put a number of the families in hotels.

The storm was fiercest in the southern part of the state, although .8 of an inch fell at San Francisco. Two weekend traffic fatalities were blamed on the storm in the Northern California area

The rain was expected to ease off into light showers and sprinkles in most of Los Angeles today, although it was still raining in the southern counties. Another storm is moving in from the Pacific and the forecaster predicted heavy rains again Tuesday.

Los Angeles has had 2.58 inches of rain, along the beaches there was more than 4 inches, and it was even greater in the hills. Snow fell above 5,000 feet.

Winter sports fans were jubilant. It was the first snow of the winter, and 12 inches fell at Mt. Baldy, east of Los Angeles, and 18 inches at Big Bear Lake, to the northeast.

Ranchers Welcome Rain

Farmers were happy, too, although the heaviest rain fell in coastal areas, where agricultural acreage is least. In the Antelope Valley on the edge of the Mojave Desert, where ranchers needed rain urgently, only half an inch fell.

Snow and rain covered broad sections in the eastern half of the nation and in some other western areas.

Another surge of arctic air moved southward through the centr l part of the country. Temperatures dropped to near zero in parts of the northern Plains and the eastern slopes of the northern Rockies. Freezing weather advanced into northern Texas.

Light snow continued over most areas from the upper Mississippi Valley eastward through the Great Lakes region and most of Pennsylvania and southward into northern sections of the Ohio Valley.

More rain splashed Tennessee, Mississippi and northwestern Alabama, while thunderstorms rumbled across northwest Florida. Rain changed to snow in parts of northern Arkansas and northwestern Tennessee with the arrival of colder air.

Near blizzard conditions were reported in northeast New Mexico. Motorists were warned of hazardous driving on U.S. 66 east of Albuquerque. The north-south route between Albuquerque and Santa Fe was closed.

Elliott Seeks State GOP Post

DETROIT (AP) — Arthur G. Elliott Jr. stepped up his drive today to win the post of Republican state chairman by lining up a committee of more than 100 Republican leaders.

Elliott, who is Gov. George Romney's executive assistant, said the committee to help his campaign will be headed by Wendell Hobbs, Washtenaw County Republican chairman. Hobbs had been considered a possible contender for state chairman.

The selection will be made by the Republican state convention in Grand Rapids this weekend. George Van Peursem, the present state chairman, is not seeking re-election.

The campaign for the chairmar's job is now a race between Elliott and John A. Gibbs, who is Elliott's former assistant as Oakland County Republican chairman.

Two Flint Girls Killed In Collision

By The Associated Press

Two teen-age Flint girls were killed in an automobile crash Sunday, bringing the Michigan weekend traffic fatality toll to 14.

In other accidents, a young college student fell to his death from a second floor balcony at a dormitory at Michigan State University-Oakland.

Pamela Gallardo, 16, and Patricia Casper, 17, both of Flint, were killed Sunday at a collision in Davison Township, Genesee County. State police said a car driven by Dennis M. McDermott, 16, of Flint, ran a stop sign and hit the girls' car broadside.

New Iraq Regime Fights Holdouts Of Communists

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraq's rebel regime fought Communist holdouts in Baghdad and the major port of Basra today but appeared to be in control of the country.

To prove that overthrown Premier Abdel Karim Kassem really is dead, the rebels showed his body on television. Travelers said he was tried in the rubble of his office by a drumhead court Saturday, forced to sit on a sofa and machine-gunned.

Reports to Tehran from frontier towns said armed Communists invaded Basra Prison Sunday and freed about 1,500 Communists and criminals. The government was reported withdrawing forces from the border with Kuwait and moving them to Basra to fight the communists.

In Baghdad, Communists were reported resisting with small arms fire in heavily populated areas. Raiding parties fired on their houses with rifles and 50-caliber machine guns.

Members of the nation's new National Guard, formed under revolt leader Col. Abdel Kerim Mustafa, were reported to have joined Iraqi regular troops fighting Communist holdouts.

Mustafa heads a six-man junta which announced Saturday the appointment of transitional President Abdul Salem Mohammed Aref and a Cabinet but kept supreme powers for itself.

Baghdad radio announced the execution of four army officers—three colonels and a major—as "criminals and traitors." The revolutionary government announced previously the execution of four other officers, including Kassem.

Two Americans arriving in Beirut from Baghdad, Edward Foley, an engineer from White Plains, N.Y., and Peter Morton, an architect from Boston, said hundreds probably died in the defense of Kassem's office.

The premier shot it out with the attackers until dawn Saturday, when his ammunition gave out, the Americans said.

Newspaper Strike Talks Recessed With No Results

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 18 hours of newspaper strike negotiations ended this morning without agreement and with mixed feelings on chances of settling the 66-day blackout.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner, acting as mediator, recessed the talks at 8:30 a.m., pending a report from both sides by Tuesday at the latest.

Wagner said substantial differences still exist between the publishers and the striking printers of Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union.

Walter N. Thayer, spokesman for publishers of the papers involved, left City Hall about half an hour before Wagner made his statement. He looked haggard and weary and was visibly disappointed.

He said the publishers would meet later today—"We cannot say what will happen after that."

However, he would not say that negotiations had broken down.

Local Outbreaks Detected As Far West As Kansas

WASHINGTON (AP)—A shock wave of Asian flu — a wintry friend of death—is hitting the Eastern Seaboard and leapfrogging inland as far as Kansas.

U.S. Public Health Service officials can't say for sure, but the odds are it will spread in local outbreaks across the country.

In a sampling of 108 cities, the Public Health Service reports that pneumonia-influenza deaths have been running over the epidemic threshhold for four weeks.

Elderly Vunerable

Especially vulnerable are the elderly, the chronically ill and pregnant women.

Asian flu has been confirmed in Maryland, Kansas, Illinois, North Carolina and the District of Columbia.

It is suspected strongly but not yet confirmed in Vermont, Maine, Delaware, Virginia, South Carolina and Georgia.

Confirmation is made by laboratory tests of blood specimens from victims to detect the high level of protective antibodies against the virus, and by spotting the virus in throat swabs.

The Public Health Service warned earlier this year that following the normal cycle Asian flu likely would strike the nation hard this winter. For a while it looked as though the warning was wrong.

Then, in mid-January, the pattern of Asian flu appeared. Now it is expected to stay until mid-March when it generally declines.

Vaccines Help

Asian influenza is one of the "A" type influenza viruses which seem to strike every two or three years. It was first seen in the winter of 1957-58. There was some forewarning when it was identified in Japan and named. Vaccines were hurriedly made against the virus and distributed widely across the United States.

Officials believe that the Vaccines took the top off of the epidemic that year—but it still was of great proportions. A wave of the disease in the fall of 1957 was associated with 39,300 excess deaths above the normal death rate. The winter has left 20,000 excess deaths.

It struck the United States again in 1960 and there were 26,700 excess deaths.

From those epidemics, experts have determined that people over 45 are in the risk category—with those over 65 in the area of greatest risk.

Rail Unions Ask Job Conference

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The heads of five railroad labor unions have suggested a "summit conference" approach to the three-year-old dispute over management plans for a streamlining operation that would slash more than 40,000 workers from their payrolls.

The labor leaders hinted also in lettters to management representatives that failure to settle the dispute, which threatens to tie up virtually all rail traffic in the nation, could result in congressional intervention.

The carrier representatives broke off talks last June and initiated plans to put their work rules changes into effect. The carriers are maintaining a "wall of silence," the union leaders charged.

The letter proposed renewed negotiations leading to "what might be called a summit meeting," which would work out procedures for "a mutually satisfactory settlement."

J. E. Wolfe, spokesman for the railroads, reached at Miami Beach, Fla., had no comment, observing that he had not yet seen the letter.

Laos King Gives Thanks To Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — King Savang Vathana of Laos arrived in the Soviet Union today to express official thanks for international accords which ended fighting in his country.

The king, who is accompanied by Premier Souvanna Phouma, is expected to visit the United States before returning home from a tour which will take in 10 countries.

Did Delta County Native Serve In The Civil War?

Was there ever a native of Delta County who served in the Civil War?

Dave S. Coon, director of the Delta County Historical Museum, asked the question in connection with researches relating to Escanaba's observance of its Centennial this year. County government was organized in 1861 and permanent settlement of Escanaba was under way in 1863 at the height of the Civil War. Construction of ore loading docks and a railroad to the iron mines was started because of the need of the Union for steel for ships, canon and weapons.

Coon says there appears to be an "absolute lack of documentary evidence" to prove that any Delta County native served in the Civil War.

Lincoln's Birthday

One source,, an article in the Escanaba Journal of Feb. 2, 1912, reports that Delta County had 24 men who "engaged in hostilities from the beginning to the end of the war' but the statement is undocumented.

The list of enlistments by counties, however, indicates that enlistees from Delta County must have enlisted in other counties where it was more convenient to do so. Delta County 100 years ago had a population of perhaps 500; the seat of pioneer county government had not yet been moved to Escanaba from old Masonville; and meetings of the supervisors were intermittent.

President Lincoln in Washington on Feb. 12, 1861, scarcely observed his birthday anniversary, so deeply was he burdened with the perilous affairs of the nation. In January he had issued his emancipation proclamation; Appomatox and the end of the Civil War was still more than two years away; and in many places throughout the North there was resistance and riots against the draft.

There may well have been Delta County men who entered the service of the Union — but it is indicated that most of the men who became members of the Grand Army of the Republic after the war came to Delta County after the war was over.

Coon's researching reveals that in 1884 the Iron Port (early Escanaba newspaper) published the names of persons who were obtaining pensions from the United States as veterans of the Civil War. The names were supplied by Secretary Teller of the U.S. Treasury, the date was Jan. 19, 1884, and as Coon comments the "monthly payments, compared to the payments made to veterans today, seem to be meager indeed."

The list of pensioners: John Larabee, Bay de Noc, $6; Herman Winde, Brampton, 12; Wilhelm Prause, Brampton, $2; Emil Glaser, Escanaba, $6; George W. Edwards, Escanaba, $8; Elden G. Dixon, Escanaba, $8; William McKeever, Escanaba, $4; John Simmons, Escanaba, $4; Benjamin J. Nickles, Escanaba, $2; John G. Walters, Escanaba, $8; Robert Redford, Escanaba, $2; Thomas J. Keyes, Escanaba, $6; Charles F. Bouton, Escanaba, $8; Archibald McKenzie, Escanaba, $2; Jacob Carrow, Garden, $2; Elizabeth A. Needham, Garden, $8; John T. Brown, Lathrop, $4; Benjamin Leland, Nahma, $8.

Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday anniversary will be observed tomorrow, has a Centennial "look alike" in Escanaba. He is Rene Lippens, 1603 S. 14th St., whose Centennial beard and top hat further the resemblance. Lippens grew his beard for the Centennial; Lincoln because a girl wrote to him suggesting that a beard would make him more handsome. (Daily Press Photo)

G.A.R. Roster

"Perhaps if we could get the records of these persons as they relate to the Civil War from the archives department of the Special Services in Washington, there may be some of the men who were actually natives of this county who were serving in the Civil War." said Coon.

"Vital statistics, including marriage and divorce records, and so forth, will sometimes reveal the name of a soldier who claims to have have been a resident in Delta County, but no tabulation of those records has been made with which to prepare any record," Coon added.

The names of 92 members of the local C. F. Smith Post of G.A.R. (Grand Army of the Republic) are on record — but Coon says that none of these are names of "native residents of Delta County." Coon pointed out that the G.A.R. was a voluntary association and there may have been some veterans who were not members.

Forerunner of the G.A.R. was a loosely knit "Soldiers and Sailors Organization, started at Lake Linden, Coon reported.

Will Help Search

"At the end of the war, most of the participants were so fed up with and sick of the whole business they wanted only to forget it," Coon said. "After 10 or more years, however, memories and friendships brought many of the veterans together again, leading them into the fold of the Grand Army, and the 'Old Soldiers' became a potent political force in getting pensions and help for needy and crippled soldiers and their wives."

Coon's research reveals the names of 92 men on the roster of the local G.A.R. post.

"But we do not have the name of any native citizen of Delta County who was a veteran of that war," Coon added. "Perhaps some one who reads this may know of such a man. If they have the necessary data —correct name, his company and similar information — his complete record can be obtained from the U.S. Archives in Washington. We will be glad to get these records for any native if they can provide the proper information."

Patients Look Ahead To Work

ANN ARBOR (AP) — As they grow older, most people look forward to retirement, but a group of older patients at the Ypsilanti State Hospital looks forward each day to going back to work.

They are mental patients, aged 55 and over, engaged in a manufacturing process that makes them feel useful and wanted, keeps them occupied and even returns a profit.

Results of a year-old rehabilitation program at the hospital have been dramatic, said Dr. Wilma Donahue, head of the University of Michigan Division of Cerontology and director of the research-demonstration project.

Back To Jobs

The project, partially sponsored by the U.S. Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, is aimed at proving that a well-run rehabilitation program for certain geriatric papatients can greatly increase their chances for re-entry into community life, or at least enable them to live better-adjusted hospital lives, she said.

"Several of the patients have been discharged to their families or back to their own jobs. Where previously there had been no hope of parents or other loved ones being discharged, now there is proof it can be done.'

The program started with a carefully selected group of patients who, among other things, never before had been in a mental hospital and who had showed stability in their earlier life.

A workshop was established, and the first job it got was to manufacture cotton swabs for the university hospital.

Soon they branched out, producing plastic toy French poodles, black walnut inlaid dominoes and wooden hobby horses for children. The hospital bought power tools for some of the men, to facilitate production.

Change Noticed

The products were sold through the hospital craft shop, and the hundred poodle kits to assemble and sell.

Its biggest boost came when a local auto supplier firm asked them to assemble knobs for automobile instrument panels and to sort letters used to spell the name of the automobile.

A real change has been noticeable in the patients, said Dr. Leonpard Ottesman, a pshchologist and assistant director for research.

"The patients were found to complain far less about their personal health. They looked forward to the future with interest. They brightened up in almost every way. We found that if the patients stopped work for several days, they would slump mentally and physically," he said.

Port Huron Gets ARA Motel Project

The Area Redevelopment Administration announces approval of a $1 million loan for a 100 unit motel center including a restaurant, swimming pool and bowling alley at Port Huron, Mich.

Motel Development Co. of Detroit, operators of three similar motel centers in Eastern Michigan, got the 20 year loan at an interest rate of 4 per cent. In addition to federal funds, Auer Mortgage Co. of Detroit will loan $440,000, the Port Huron-St. Clair County Development Co., a local non-profit organization, will invest $171,000 and the Motel Co. will put up $99,000 in equity for a project costing a total of $1,710,000.

Port Huron was designated as eligible to participate in the ARA program because of long term, heavy unemployment, last reported as at 7.7 per cent and above the national unemployment rate.

The fighting in the remote borderlands of the high Himalayas directly involves 40 per cent of the world population. One out of every four members of the human race lives in Communist China; one out of seven lives in India.

St. Joseph Parish Buys 3 Properties

St. Joseph's Parish, the mother church parish of the Catholic Church in Delta County, has acquired three properties adjoining its church, school and auditorium for the parish's expanding services, announces the Rev. Fr. Jordan Telles, O. F. M., pastor.

The purchases leave only one property in the block occupied by St. Joseph Church, the rectory, and school which is not religious property. These buildings occupy the north half of the block on 1st Ave. S. On the other half of the block, facing 2nd Ave. S., is the dwelling of Mrs. Laura Riley, the convent of the Sisters of Notre Dame, and the home formerly occupied by the late Mrs. Walter J. (Lillian) Hodson, now owned by Mrs. Freda Enfield and being acquired by the parish on a land contract.

It will probably be used for parking eventually, but disposition has not been determined by the parish committee, said Father Jordan, and it is being acquired by the parish in its program of acquisitions for long range services.

The former Hodson home is directly behind St. Joseph Church and opposite the front of the Franklin School.

The parish has also acquired from Swanson Johnson, two lots and three dwellings on the north side of 1st Ave. S. opposite the rectory and school and just west of Bonifas Auditorium and Gymnasium, which facilities are owned by the parish.

The dwellings, only two of which face on 1st Ave. S., will be razed next summer and the lots cleared and paved for churchgoers' parking. The lots are now high, but they will be lowered by filling the basement excavations of the dwellings and by haul-away if necessary to bring them to street level for parking use. The larger dwelling on the property facing 1st Ave. S. also is vacant.

There remains on the half block opposite the church, rectory and school one more dwelling and a gas station at the west end. The Johnson property acquired by the parish is 100 feet by 160 feet deep.

Sawyer Officers Chamber Guests At Dinner Dance

Members of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce took time out from their business activities Saturday evening to enjoy an evening of dinner and dancing at the Dells Supper Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Henslee and Mr. and Mrs. Wilmore K. Berglund were co-chairmen of the event, which opened with a cocktail party at 6 p. m., followed by dinner.

President Jack C. Berg introduced Col. Daniel P. McLean, commander of K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base, and Mrs. McLean, and Col. James F. Reed, commander of the 56th Fighter Wing and Mrs. Reed, who were guests.

Beards were very much in evidence at the party. Local celebrities introduced by Berg were "Abe" John Valach "Lincoln", "Louis" John DeChantal "Pasteur", "Mitch" Don Guindon "Miller", and "Burl Walter Lewke "Ives".

Manley Anderson's orchestra played for the dancing which followed the dinner. About 130 attended the party.

Brenda Lee To Headline Fair

Meeting Saturday night, the Upper Peninsula State Fair board approved contracts for Brenda Lee, popular teen age singing star and The Casuals, a combo that has pleased fair patrons for the past two years.

The group will be featured on Sunday evening, Aug. 18, according to Dean Jackson, chairman of the board, who presided. Plans are being made to hold a teen age dance in conjunction with the show.

Secretary-manager Ray LaPorte submitted a report to the board on the meeting held Feb. 8, with the U. P. Dairy Breeds Committee, which was attended by Extension personnel, fair officials and members of the four major dairy breeds exhibiting at the fair. Recommendations of the dairy group included, construction of a new unloading ramp for cattle, extension of cattle washing racks, and renovation of sleeping quarters for exhibitors in the large dairy barn. The board of managers authorized the improvements within the availability of funds.

Attending the meeting were Dean Jackson, Ontonagon; R. T. Allingham, Escanaba; Carl P. Hansen, Wallace; and Kemp H. Brown, Munising. Erling Arntzen, Escanaba, who was recently appointed to the board by Gov. George Romney was absent from the city. The U. P. State Fair will be Aug. 13-18.

Aftermath Worse Than The Painters

NEW YORK (AP)—Well, they have come and gone—those men dressed in white.

But they didn't take me away. I wisn they had. They were the painters.

With hard work, patience and persistence I may be able to get the place in order just about the time it needs painting again.

Anyhow, it is nice and clean. I can't say the same for me. I am sort of rainbow-striped, with shadings of sandalwood in my hair.

Fast Drying?

In normal times I am able to walk through a doorway without touching either side. But smear the facings with a little paint and I can't manage to get past without the door and me leaving lasting impressions on each other.

I've been informed that it's fast-drying paint, but apparently they forgot to notify the walls of this fact. They smudge me and I smudge them whenever we chance to meet.

I've decided the best thing to do is just sit motionless in a chair until the stuff dries. On second thought, after looking at the mess around here, I may just sit motionless in a chair forever.

Somewhere in all that debris are dishes, and while I may be able to latch on to a couple of restaurant meals on this deal, the time will eventually come when I'll have to find them and start using them again.

Where's The Salt?

Even so, I'll be operating under a handicap. The can opener may not come into view for weeks.

I thought I had emptied the cabinets in a scientific sort of way—putting the contents of each one in a separate box. But they must have played fruitbasket turnover while my back was turned. The measuring cups are now in with the shoe polish and the pancake mix is chumming it up with the detergent.

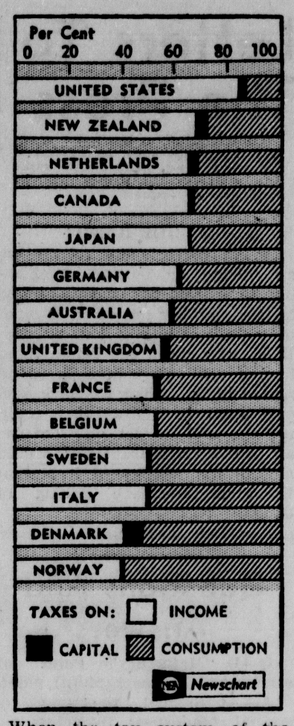

I tried to fix a hamburger, but I couldn't find the salt. We have a whole carton of it, dozens of shakers full, garlic salt, onion salt, seasoning salt, and even a 10-pound bag of it we got when we visited a salt factory. But not a grain in sight.

I thought the hard part was getting ready for the painters. Now it looks as though the worst is yet to come.

Anybody got a nice, uncluttered apartment I can move into?

When the tax system of the United States is compared with that of other nations, its most outstanding feature is its heavy reliance on income taxes. (Taxes on capital include property, estate, inheritance and gift taxes; taxes on consumption are all other taxes.) As chart shows, in 1960, U.S. government obtained about 83 per cent of total tax revenues from taxes on income.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz.—Dr. William A. LeMire of Escanaba, Mich., used a 6 iron to score the first hole in one at the Desert Forest Golf Club at Carefree, Ariz., which was opened only 53 days ago.

Dr. LeMire made the shot on the 173-yard 17th hole. Witnessing his first hole in one in 35 years of golfing were his wife and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Perry of Bocnd Brook, N. J., on Feb. 8.

St. John of 1412 9th Ave. S., Escanaba, is serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Constellation, which was part of the combined force of 20 ships engaged in Exercise Saddle Blanket early in February off the coast of Southern California.

Queen Runs Into More Mishaps

Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh ran into a series of mishaps on the sixth day of their visit to New Zealand.

Winds blowing as the royal couple sailed into the harbor of Wellington in the royal yacht, Brittania forced them to sail into the wharf by barge.

A civic reception had to be moved indoors. Light rain, gusty winds and overcast made conditions unpleasant.

On a 15-mile drive to nearby Hutt City three cars in the procession telescoped, causing minor damage.

Nicholas Donofrio, 24, of Whelton, Conn., shot a pheasant, state police at Newtown, Conn., said. He was arrested and charged with: hunting out of season, hunting from a motor vehicle, carrying a loaded rifle in a motor vehicle, hunting without a license, discharging a rifle near a highway, hunting within 500 feet of a dwelling and driving a motor vehicle without a license.

Donofrio couldn't even keep the pheasant. Police planned to keep it in a deep freeze for use as evidence at his trial.

George O. Bertram, 51, announced, at Campbellsville, Ky., his candidacy for the circuit judgeship, of the 11th State Judicial District—a post his brother, Philip, 53, has held since 1958.

Philip said he will announce his candidacy shortly.

The brothers, both Democrats and lawyers, had a dispute last year over Philip's dismissal of the county grand jury before its term expired.

Judging The Constitution

W. K. Kelsey, The Commentator of the Detroit News, brings one of the most respected minds in American journalism to appraisal of the Michigan scene. An admirer of ex-Gov. G. Mennen Williams in many of his columns when the adjoining editorial columns of the News were nominating Soapy for oblivion, Kelsey mourned in a recent column that Soapy wasn't on hand in Grand Rapids for the recent Democratic state convention instead of off on safari in Washington. (He's undersecretary of state for African affairs.)

Kelsey wrote that he was not concerned over the election of Zolton Ferency over Joe Collins for state Democratic chairman "but he is annoyed by the disposition of Democratic leaders to make adoption or defeat of the proposed constitution a partisan affair.

"If it is in the minds of those leaders to damage Gov. Romney by beating the document in the April 1 election," wrote Kelsey "they might consider the fact that if he is not nominated for the presidency, and he will not be, he will run for re-election to the governorship in 1964, not as the choice of Republicans only, but of Democrats who refused to be outlawed by their leaders.

* * *

"There is an old maxim that 'one good term deserves another.' It remains to be seen whether Mr. Romney proves an expert governor. If he does, he is very likely to be re-elected for another two-year term. The proposed constitution provids for a four-year term, for the governor who will be elected in 1966—not 1964.

"But if Gov. Romney does not make good with the people he will not be re-elected in 1964, whether the new constitution is adopted or not. What, then, is the political sense of making adoption or rejection of the document a partisan question?

"James M. Hare, secretary of state, says its apportionment section guarantees that Republicans will forever control the senate. So does the present constitution, only more so. In the absence of a federal court ruling which would outlaw both plans, the remedy would lie in an amendment to whatever document happens to be in effect. Mr. Hare's argument is therefore incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial."

* * *

Kelsey also comments upon the Democratic oppositionists' strategy in changing their "kill the constitution" slogan from "If you don't know, vote no" to "Those who know, vote no." A Democratic party official explained that the old slogan insulted the intelligence of the voters. "Most people don't know anything about the old constitution, let alone the new one, but nobody is willing to admit it," said the spokesman.

To which Kelsey replies "In substance this means: 'The voters are silly asses, and we know it, but why let on that we do? Why insult the intelligence of the unintelligent?'

"It amazes the Commentator to read that Neil Staebler, whom he has long regarded as the ablest politician of them all, should find that the proposed constitution would weaken the governor's power. Evidently Gov. Romney doesn't think so or he would not have reached for the job. The Commentator would like Mr. Staebler to furnish the people with a bill of particulars regarding this matter. There are several sections of the proposed constitution that the Commentator doesn't like, but it seems to him that it grants powers to the chief executive that he does not now possess, and should have, and takes nothing from him that he can't do without."

* * *

The Democrats of Michigan are split on the constitution, as they were on party machinery control at their state convention, when labor took over control openly. The convention placed the Democratic party on record as opposed to the new constitution. The issue is a serious one for Democrats as well as for Michigan because the party, in its striving for political independence, will be judged by its regard for the new constitution.

The document was written by a constitutional convention to which the people of Michigan elected a predominance of Republicans after the Democratic leaders had opposed the calling of such a convention. The opposition counters the Democrats' historic dedication to progressive government and gives support to elements which are opposing the document because it would effect them individually in its prescription for a better Michigan. They do this to the great harm of their party.

Sinking U. S. Shipping

A sit-down strike of three unions recently kept the new nuclear-powered cargo ship "Savannah" from putting to sea for nearly two weeks. That strike was symptomatic of "the wasting disease" that threatens to sink the U.S. merchant marine without trace, says Robert S. Strother in Reader's Digest.

"The bleak fact," he writes, "is that the government subsidy for U.S. ships operating in foreign trade has soared out of control, and the greed the subsidy generates among leaders of the maritime unions is killing the industry."

There are 18 separate maritime unions. No less than four and usually six unions are represented on every ship. Any union can prevent a sailing. Wage scales on all U.S. ships have been boosted to a level three to six times higher than those paid on foreign ships.

Before the latest wage hike, the daily wage bill on the C-2 cargo vessel was $1,234, compared with an average of $353 for the same vessel under the British flag and $300 under the German. Direct weekly pay of an unlicensed seaman aboard U.S. flag ships working 40 hours, with the 16 hours overtime required by the unions, runs about $175, or 50 per cent more than the national average for all production workers in manufacturing.

In 1946, U.S. ships carried two thirds of U.S. trade. By 1960 the figure was 10.5 per cent. Some 350 U.S.-owned ships have fled to register under the flags of Panama or Liberia. In shipbuilding, U.S. yards have reached the lowest ebb in years.

To correct conditions, three bills have been introduced in Congress to restore collective bargaining in the maritime industry.

100 Police Killed

In a little less than three years, 100 police officers in the United States were killed in the performance of duty. Several thousand were assaulted, many of them brutally.

It is no surprise that 37 of these killings grew out of police efforts to interrupt burglaries or robberies in progress. Armed men threatened with capture seldom hesitate to use violence to attempt escape.

Of growing alarm, however, is the evidence that officers who try to break up disturbances—family quarrels, rowdy parties, near-riots—are being subjected to mounting peril. Twenty-two policemen lost their lives in such efforts in 33 months.

The FBI warns that both car and foot patrols must use great caution in handling such disturbances. The agency notes, too, that 25 officers were killed while either making arrests or transporting prisoners.

Is There A Bandaid In The House?

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)— William C. Foster, director of the U. S. Disarmament Agency in the State Department, is going to Geneva as temporary chief negotiator for the 18-nation talks on a nuclear test ban agreement scheduled to reopen Feb. 12. He will take over the first round of disarmament talks, then turn the job over to mission chief Charles Stelle, pending President Kennedy's appointment of a successor to Arthur Dean, recently resigned.

Not too much hope is held that anything definite will come out of these talks, following Russia's abrupt withdrawal from the Washington and New York negotiations with Britain and America—just when everybody had been led to believe that the Russians were in a mood to sign.

American officials still believe the Russians will sign ultimately, after they have been given their acceptance of on-site inspection a good propaganda ride with the eight smaller nations at Geneva.

* * *

One major difficulty in the present situation on the test ban talks is that the Russian position is always completely flexible to the point of being fluid or even gaseous, while the American-British position is almost always frozen to the point of being immobile.

The Americans and British, after careful research and thorough study, prepare position papers on every phase of disarmament, including the ban on nuclear testing which is an all-important preliminary step. The principles set forth in these plans are always considered fair, workable and, of course, right.

Having announced these policies to the world, the western powers are stuck with them even though it is made clear they are open to negotiation.

The Russians never put themselves in any such strait-jacket. Starting from a broad principle of being for general and complete disarmament which they know is unattainable, they vacilate all over the conference rooms with the greatest of ease.

* * *

For nearly two months, American and British negotiators had been convinced the Russians were at last serious about wanting to sign a test ban agreement. Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko accepted on-site inspection in principle. Only the question of the number of inspections remained to be resolved.

The negotiations were being conducted responsibly, in secret, without news releases or speeches in open conference for propaganda purposes. Then all of a sudden, like a groundhog ducking before its shadow, the Russians broke off the talks.

In one sense, the negotiations may have been considered shadowboxing to the point of being futile. For being considered in the test ban agreement was an escape clause big enough for all the missiles in the world to be launched.

It was provided that if a fourth or a fifth power—France and Red China, for instance—began extensive nuclear testing that threatened their national security, signatories to the ban could pull out and resume testing on their own at will. There was also, of course, provision that other powers could be brought under the ban, if they wanted to come in. But there was no way to force them in.

* * *

Why the Russians broke off the talks even with all these provisions remains a mystery. And the pursuit of Communist motives in any situation is always futile.

While the talks were in progress the speculation was that the Russians were at last being realistic over their setback in Cuba and their growing ideological split with Red China. Also, the Russians had just completed their own series of tests and they wanted to reduce tensions for a while.

In the past, when the Russians have broken off disarmament and nuclear test ban talks, they have followed with a resumption of their own testing. President Kennedy's quick order to prepare for a resumption of U. S. underground tests in Nevada, after announcing their suspension, may have anticipated some such Russian move once again.

The Doctor Says:

Open Eyes Won't Disturb Sleep

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

A worried mother writes that her 4-year-old son does not always close his eyes completely when he sleepes. When he is awake he can close them without any difficulty. He sleeps well but his mother is afraid he might get something in his eyes at night.

In most cases of this kind there is nothing to worry about because during sleep the eyes roll upward so that only the whites are visible. If, however, any of the iris (the colored portion) can be seen, the delicate cornea is exposed and, since this portion of the eye is especially sensitive to drying, an eye doctor should prescribe some salve or eyedrops to be used at bedtime.

Q — When my 9-year-old son was 6 months old he was exposed to measles. The doctor took some blood from me and injected it into him. He said that since I had had measles, my blood would act as a vaccine. He did not test either mine or the baby's blood type. I have since heard this was a dangerous procedure. Could this cause trouble if my son ever needed a transfusion?

A — I can only assume from your letter that the blood taken from you was injected deep into the hip muscles of your son and not into the vein. Since injection into the muscles does not require testing for blood type, the procedure was not dangerous and does not place your son in jeopardy should he later need a transfusion.

It is true that when blood is transfused directly into the vein, careful cross-matching of the blood types of the donor and recipient is essential. I'm sure your doctor makes this a routine part of all such procedures.

Q — My daughter, nine and a half, has a mustache which is quite noticeable. She is a lovely child and I'm afraid she will get an inferiority complex. I am afraid to use a bleach or hair remover on her. Can you suggest anything?

A — It would be interesting to know whether your daughter has any other signs of masculinity or precocious maturing. If she has, there may be some disturbance of her glands of internal secretion and a thorough study should be made to determine the cause. On the other hand, this may just be something that runs in the family of one or both parents.

OUTSIDE BAND?

If I'm correct, the reason for not hiring an outside organization to operate our centennial was to keep the big money in Escanaba instead of letting it go outside. If so, why get a Big Name Band in that will cost several thousand scarce bucks, when we have several local orchestras that could use the job? In fact, why not use all of our orchestras? This would add to the novelty of it and at the same time save a slug of dough.

Investigate Two Minor Accidents Over Weekend

Troopers of the Gladstone Post report two traffic mishaps over the past weekend, both in which occupants of the cars received cuts and bruises.

David Larson, 41, of the Old State Road, Escanaba, was ticketed for violation of the basic speed law, too fast for conditions, following an accident at 2 a.m. Sunday on U.S. 2-41, one and three-tenths of a mile west of County Road 557 in Harris Township.

Larson told officers that the wheels of his car dropped off the edge of the pavement on the right side of the road, causing him to lose control of it. The car rolled over. He sustained cuts and bruises.

Walter Busch, 64, of Rapid River, was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way after a mishap at the intersection of U.S. 2 and County Road I-2 in Masonville Township at 10:55 a.m. Sunday.

According to officers, Busch, traveling north on County Road I-2 pulled out from the side road onto U.S. 2 into the path of a car driven by Virginia Jarvis, 19, of 324 Michigan Ave., Gladstone. The Jarvis vehicle struck the left side of the Busch car.

A passenger in the Jarvis car, Mrs. Howard Burk, 38, of 325 Michigan Ave., suffered bruises in the mishap.

Forest Recreation Called Bright Prospect For U.P.

L'ANSE — Citing changing forestry concepts from the "cut out and get out" policies of the turn of the century to the selective cutting, sustained yield and multiple-use practices of today, Lynn Sandberg, forest manager for Celotex Corp., holdngs here, outlined several approaches to still another concept of modern forest management — that of recreation — at the annual meeting of the Baraga Soil Conservation District.

Sandberg noted the days of the single-use forest (strictly for growing timber) are a thing of the past, and added that recreational aspects in recent years have assumed new importance in the multiple-use management of privately owned forest lands.

Needs Receive Attention

"The combination of a rapidly expanding population, short work weeks, longer paid vacations, more 'luxury spending' income, more retired people with both the time and the money to travel and greatly increased mobility has created new and increasing pressures on land for recreational purposes," he said. "These needs are receiving attention from both public and private forest land owners, and guide lines for their development are being set up."

Sandberg painted an optimistic picture of the recreational possibilities for the Upper Peninsula, adding that the direction of development of forest land held in large private ownerships will have a marked effect on the whole course of recreation in the area.

Approximately 30 per cent of the Upper Peninsula forest land—3,000,000 acres — belongs to large timber owners, who each hold 5,000 or more acres. Another 30 per cent is in small ownerships by farmers and others, with the remaining 40 per cent in government ownership.

Several Ways To Develop

"Several avenues of approach to development of these lands are open to the recreational planner," Sandberg stated. "First, any part or all of a forest property could be sold to an individual developer, who would take advantage of the recreational possibilities. Secondly, any part or all of the property could be leased to a single developer, with timber rights retained by the forest property owner. Third, the forest owner might carry out the development of the property himself, including construction of access roads and subdivision of recreational sites for sale or lease to individuals. Finally, the forest owner could develop and subdivide the property and carry on the recreation activities as part of the forest operation."

The Celotex Corp., is working on a program for recreational development of its holdings in this area.

A shift in land-use emphasis on lake front, scenic and other recreation-type lands was called for by James Walter, a Tampa, Fla., home builder and new majority stockholder of Celotex Corp., following an inspection tour of company lands in this area last summer. Sandberg said no definite decision has been reached on which of the four approaches to development the Celotex Corp. will follow.

Sandberg noted the report of the 1959 Great Lakes shoreline recreation area survey which proposed acquisition by government agencies of two major areas on the south short of Lake Superior for national parks — the Pictured Rocks area near Munising and the Huron Mountain area in Baraga and Marquette counties.

"These two developments would take out of production thousands of acres of productive forest land now being managed for sustained yield of logs and pulpwood," he explained. "Certainly the need for public access to Lake Superior does exist. It is possible that these forest lands could provide both recreation and forest products if developed properly under multiple-use management planning.

'One Of Most Significant'

"The combination of shoreline and mountain characteristics that come together in the Huron Mountain area single it out as one of the most significant places for a potential recreation development in the entire Upper Peninsula. If this general area is developed properly, it can very well have key significance in the course of development in the rest of the Peninsula."

Among the natural resources of the Peninsula which lure tourists and vacationists to the area, Sandberg listed the deer herd; many scenic attractions, including mountains, waterfalls and the much-neglected Sturgeon River gorge; water (both Great Lakes shoreline, inland lakes and many rivers), and the reliably heavy snowfall.

He stressed that, for a recreational area to be truly successful, the season should continue as close to year-round as possible.

Sandberg emphasized that although this area has a vast recreational potential, if these lands are to be successfully developed, they must provide facilities in number and quality which will draw visitors from the population centers of Chicago, Detroit, Minneapolis and Milwaukee. In addition, it will be necesary to provide something very attractive which will entice people to travel long distances and to pass through areas of heavy recreational development which are closer to home, he said.

Many Problems For Planner

Sandberg pointed out that many problems confront the recreation planner in the development of specific forest properties.

"Wilderness means different things to different people," he declared. "To some, a crowded beach is the great outdoors; to others, the feeling of being miles from anyone is of prime importance. The planner must take into consideration how intensively an area can be developed without impairing the site; how many people can enjoy a limited area at one time without destroying its recreational value; and perhaps more basic, what aesthetic characteristics will draw tourists and vacationists from 500 to 1,000 miles away and make them want to come back year after year."

Sandberg concluded that there is a great natural resource in the recreational potential of private forest lands, much of which is relatively untapped and undeveloped and added that careful and adequately financed development of these resources could be a boon to the area.

"Successful management of forest lands for recreational uses alongside the timber production can add to the income from the forest and, through growth of the service industries connected with recreation, can add to the general economy and welfare of the entire state," he told the group. "These changes, improvements and advances do not come swiftly, but they will come. There is a need; now comes the awareness of the need; planning and development will follow."

Bird's Nest Hard To Get For Soup

SANDAKAN, North Borneo (AP) —Collecting edible birds nests for the world's gourments is just about as difficult as using chopsticks to scoop up the famed gelatinous soup they make.

This is due to the difficulty of getting to the tiny nests found only in lofty perches in the caves of southeast Asia. Other factors are the danger involved in bringing them down and some of the taboos shrouding their collection.

The way to the great limestone caves of Gomantong, one of the four largest nest deposits on Borneo Island, is so forbidding that even villagers living a couple of miles away have never ventured there.

Trek To Caves

To get to the caves, you must take a motor launch from this port city, across sweeping Sandakan Bay and along the winding, crocodile-infested Suan Gamba River.

It's a three-hour trip. At the end, near the source of the river, lies a small village inhabited by lumberjacks and their families.

A laterite road (impassable during the monsoon season) stretches toward the caves from the village.

It's an eight-mile trek through steaming tropical rainforest and there is no path on the final mile. A native guide has to chop a passage with a machete through the heavy undergrowth.

The towering caves are the homes of thousands of thumb-sized swiftlets whose unique way of building their nests puts about $53,000 annually into the coffers of the North Borneo government.

The birds spit a glue-like substance onto the walls of the caves. The substance — identified by some as saliva and by others as the secretion of a special gland — sticks to the rock. On this base the birds construct their cuplike nests.

Thousands of nests are massed in patches high on the walls and in crevices of the caves.

Climb To Collect

Nest building generally begins in December. A month later the collectors prepare their gear—rattan and bamboo ladders, sometimes several hundred feet high. Scaffolds are built. Where the bamboo ladders are used to reach them.

Unexplained customs and superstitions govern the collection of the nests. For example, a collector's family never calls him by name once he has left his hut for his work.

Quarreling among collectors on the job is another taboo. Collection could cease for as much as three days if a squabble occurs.

And work stops for three days to a week when anyone falls from his precarious perch during collections.

Before they are packed and shipped, the nests must be washed and soaked. All dirt must be picked out before they are dried in the sun and compressed into thin pancakes that will last for years—provided they don't go into the soup pot at once.

The Girl Scout movement began in Savanah, Ga., where Mrs. Juliette Gordon Low founded the organization in 1912. She formerly had been a leader of the Girl Guide troops in England.

Research Firms Pick Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR (AP)—One of the state's primary resources—scientific talent — continues to strengthen and enlarge the growing commercial research community surrounding the University of Michigan.

It has prompted Samuel T. Harmon, 33, to pick Ann Arbor as the site for a new research and development firm—the 22nd to locate or spring up in the area in the past doezen years.

The firm, Sensor Dynamics, was formed in December and hung out its sign in mid-January.

"In the kind of work we're doing," Harman said, "the market generally is on one coast or the other. But, on the East Coast in particular, there's a dearth of 'unattached' scientific talent.

Pool of Talent

"Here, there's a large pool of talent available to do industrial work. In fact, the University of Michigan encourages that sort of thing among its scientists," he said, adding:

"I like the area; other scientific people like the area, and we don't have to try to attract the talent to Ann Arbor—we've got it here."

The new firm has absorbed Crystal Optics Research (Inc.) Crystal specialized in processing the ruby rods that are the main element of the lazer — the revolutionary" "ray gun" that shoots a beam of light capable of drilling through steel or reaching the moon.

The sale of these lazering materials will help support the new firm until it can get on its feet, he said.

It also will concentrate on "sensing" devices for various types of electronics systems, Harmon said. (Sensing devices gather information on electromagnetic, thermal and mechanical phenomena for electronics systems much the way that human eyes, ears, nose and touch gather information about environment, he explained.)

"We expect net sales for 1963 to be up to about $500,000," he said.

Sales will revolve around the rods as well as "anticipated government-sponsored research," he said. The firm produces about 70 per cent of the rods now in use.

"We will be seeking government research and development contracts," the founder said, "and new uses for existing equipment."

He hopes to expand the staff from 10 to 30 by the end of the year, he added.

Taking advantage of the talent available, Harmon has named Dr. Howard Diamond, assisting professor of electrical engineering, a consultant to the firm to add scientific direction and counsel on product development.

"Our services should be of special interest, use and benefit to astro-science, biomedics, defense electronics, industrial electronics, geoscience, nuclear science, physical electronics and radio astronomy," Harmon said.

The firm may eventually be able to create sensoring sub-systems that would reduce the size of data processing equipment used in many U. S. defense mechanisms, he added.

It was a Crystal Optics ruby rod that helped bounce a light beam off the surface of the moon in an experiment conducted by the Raytheon Corp. at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology last year.

AND AN OCCASIONAL BEER

CLEVELAND (AP) —Unionists were speaking on the rights of barmaids to demand the same pay as their male counterparts.

Explaining the situation, Andrew J. Kump, secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO Bartenders Local 108, commented:

"I believe they are working for peanuts."

Military Pensions Head Skyward: Curbs Proposed

WASHINGTON — A cost-of-living "raise" for retired servicemen to keep the cost of military pensions from doubling by 1970 and tripling by 1980 is proposed by Defense Secretary McNamara.

The reason for the proposal is the increasing number of World War II officers and men who are reaching retirement age.

Under the present system, retired military men get the same percentage of increase in their pensions that their active duty counterparts receive — each time military pay is boosted.

McNamara is asking Congress for a $1.4 billion pay hike for the nation's servicemen this year to bring them more in line with civilian wage - earners, bolster recruiting and keep top men in uniform.

But instead of a percentage increase, retired officers and enlisted men would be given a pension boost sufficient only to keep abrease of the higher cost of living. If McNamara has his way, that will be the system hereafter.

Costs 'Fantastic'

Military pension costs are reaching a "fantastic" level, McNamara said.

"Something needs to be done," said Rep. Ford (R-Grand Rapids), ranking Republican on the Defense Appropriations Subcommittee. "Pension costs are becoming astronomical and the end isn't in sight."

This year, for the first time, military pensions amount to more than one billion dollars—$1,029,000,000, according to testimony for fiscal 1963 before the House panel.

By 1970, according to McNamara, the government would be paying out more than $2 billion a year to retired officers and men. By 1980, under the present scale, the total would hit $3 billion.

In 1960, the total cost was $693,000,000.

An indication of the big jump in retirements was furnished Congress by the Defense Department. Three years ago, there were 243,000 retired Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps personnel.

This year, there are 362,000 men on the retired rolls. In 1965, there will be an estimated 454,000.

2.7 Million In Ranks

Men in uniform totaled about 12 million at the height of World War II. While many left service afterward, military manpower has remained high in order to meet the threats of the cold war. There are about 2.7 million men in the armed forces now.

Career men can retire after 20 or 30 years service and draw pensions based on their length of service and rank.

Most officers are captains, majors, lieutenant colonels, and colonels or equivalent rank when they retire after 30 years. Their pensions average from $269 to $501 monthly.

The bulk of the retiring servicemen are enlisted men and, after 30 years' service, most are sergeants first class or the equivalent. They average $187 each month.

Rate Increasing

About eight out of every 100 servicemen are eligible for retirement this year—but the ratio will jump to 25 out of 110 by the end of the decade, according to Pentagon estimates.

If Congress approves, the Defense Department will examine military pensions and the cost of living each year, with adjustments coming whenever living costs rise substantially. This might mean a pension boost about every three years under the McNamara plan

There is no talk of reducing pensions when living costs go down.

McNamara has accepted the axiom that across-the-board pay cuts and pension cuts seldom happen.

LANSING (AP) — State Police Lt. Charles Mulick, assistant commander of the Detroit post, will retire Feb. 24 after more than 25 years of service. Mulick joined the department in 1937 and served at the Alpena, Romeo, Traverse City, East Tawas, Cadillac, East Lansing and Pontiac posts before being assigned to Detroit. He has one award for bravery and two for meritorious service.

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Commission has announced the addition of 557 miles to Michigan's network of all-season highways. These are the routes able to carry normal truck loads with no restrictions, even during the Spring months. The all-season highway map is being sent to truckers or can be obtained from the State Highway Department's Lansing office.

LANSING (AP) — Auditor General Billie Farnum has invited representatives of 14 county officer organizations to meet with his staff at Michigan State University next Wednesday to discuss uniform accounting procedures. Purpose of the meeting, to be held at the MSU union building, is to updating procedures for county budgeting, accounting and administration, Farnum said.

Ann Landers

Wilfred Unmanly

Dear Ann Landers: Wilfred's mother is a domineering woman. I've tried to stay out of her way because she has a sharp tongue and a hot temper.

Last week we took our children to Granny's house. The two-year-old got hold of an ash tray and started to bang it on the floor. When I took it away from him he began to cry. Granny snatched the ash tray out of my hands and gave it to the child saying, "If he breaks it so what? It's only an ash tray."

I was irritated and replied, "I'm trying to teach the boy respect for property. He is MY child and I don't think you should interfere."

Granny shot back, "He's YOUR child, all right, but is he Wilfred's? We haven't had a brown-eyed blonde in our family for a hundred years.

My husband heard this and said nothing. I almost bawled. When we got home I told Wilfred he should have spoken up but he said, "She is my mother and I must always respect her."

Was he right or wrong to remain silent?—CRUSHED WIFE

Dear Wife: No husband should allow such a damaging remark to go unchallenged. It was unmanly of Wilfred to remain silent. Your husband's reply to his mother need not have been disrespectful. But a single sentence expressing complete confidence in you was clearly in order.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: What are you trying to do — set females back 50 years?

I most swallowed my gum when you told the girl who was planning to be married that she and her husband should own everything "jointly." You said, "The less thine and mine the better."

A husband is supposed to support his wife, isn't he? If not, what does she need him for?

I've been married five years. My salary is almost as big as my husband's. He doesn't see one penny of my check. He gives me $110 a week to run the house. He waved your stupid column under my nose and said, "See, this is what I've been trying to tell you."

He thinks we should pool our checks and put something away every month for our retirement. I say, "Nothing doing." I'm putting my money away for ME. He can take care of himself.—DUMB LIKE A FOX

Dear Dumb Fox: I doubt that your husband married you to glom on to your paycheck. He probably expected love, companionship and understanding. Your letter suggests he is getting nothing out of this marriage—and paying $110 a week for it.

To borrow your phrase, "What did he need YOU for?"

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: Six months ago my niece's engagement was announced. The wedding was set for March. We were all delighted. The young man came from a prominent family and all the prospects for a good life were present.

Several parties were given to honor the couple and my niece received some beautiful wedding gifts. Last week the mother of the bride-to-be wrote a cryptic three-line note to all members of the immediate family saying the engagement has been broken. This morning the gift we sent was returned.

No one has a clue as to why the wedding is off. It's insulting to be left totally in the dark and treated as if we were strangers. I feel they owe the family an explanation. Do you agree?—SLAPPED IN THE FACE

Dear Face: I do not. The reasons are none of your business. Inevitably, this is a painful experience for the young girl and her family, and if you want to make the ordeal more bearable, don't ask any questions.

★ ★ ★

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DON'T BE A "SITTING DUCK'

CHICAGO (AP) — One motoring safety precaution most often overlooked is a supply of red flares to mark the road side position of a car in case of nighttime emergencies.

The Chicago Motor Club strongly advises flares for maximum protection against "sitting duck" accidents.

A disabled car on the roadside at night should have on its lights, and a flare should be placed some distance up the road in the direction of oncoming traffic.

Michigan motorists are reminded that the deadline for renewing their license plates for 1963 is not so far off. For 1963, Michigan motorists are being issued a tab to attach to the 1962 plate. State officials urge that motorists obtain their license tabs soon to avoid standing in line during the last-minute rush. The last date to drive without the new 1963 tabs is February 28.

Delta Shares In Road Funds

The distribution of fourth quarter motor vehicle highway fund collections has begun in Michigan, with Delta County road commission scheduled to receive $106,706. Cities and incorporated villages also share in the funds.

The motor vehicle highway fund is made up of state gasoline and diesel fuel taxes and license plate fees. The net receipts for the last quarter of 1962 amounted to $46,177,670. This was a decrease of $1,339,825 below the same period the year before and was caused by the decline in license plate revenues when sales fell off on the first new plates in three years.

Forty-seven per cent of the total fund goes to the state highway department, 35 per cent to the counties, and 18 per cent to the cities and villages.

Delta County road commission will receive $106,706 from the final quarter collections, Dickinson $84,015, Alger $53,148, Luce $46,965, Mackinac $65,965, Schoolcraft $51,739 and Menominee $112,075.

Escanaba city's share will be $25,549, Daggett $1,354, Garden $1,027, Gladstone $10,474, Iron Mountain $17,297, Kingsford $10,674, Manistique $7,686, Menominee $19,361, Newberry $4,659, Powers $1,357.

Plaques Awarded To 5 Citizens For Service To State

DETROIT (AP) — Wolverine Frontiersman plaques for services to the state were awarded five Michigan citizens today at the Economic Club of Detroit.

Chosen for the honor last May 28 as a feature of Michigan Week were: Mary Ann Kingry of Saginaw, a student at Nazareth College; Robert P. Briggs of Consumers Power Co., Jackson; Henry Ford II, Sebastian S. Kresge and Stephen S. Nisbet, who was president of the Michigan Constitutional Convention.

Daniel F. Gerber, president of the Greater Michigan Foundation, was designated to award a certificate of merit to Edwin O. George of Detroit Edison Co., for his work as general chairman of the 1962 Michigan Week.

The early practice of the House of Representatives was to appoint select committees for every bill with specific instructions on authorities and duties. Today standing committees handle this procedure.

Grenholm Named Charities Leader

George A. Grenholm, 916 Lake Shore Drive, has been named executive director of the new Delta United Charities, President A. W. Freeman announced today.

Grenholm was named at a luncheon meeting of the DUC executive committee Friday at the House of Ludington, when the new 30-member board of directors for the agency was reviewed.

Delta United Charities is now being organized as a successor to the United Fund and Community Chest to federate the fund campaigns of about 10 local youth, charitable and health service agencies like Red Cross, the Boy Scouts and Child Guidance Clinic. It plans a fund campaign in September to finance the agencie's 1964 operations.

"We feel very fortunate in getting George Grenholm to serve as a salaried, part-time director of our new Delta United Charities," said Freeman, who has been a chief author of the federation.

"Our own community's experience and that of many other communities indicates that federated fund campaigns of the kind we need cannot be successfully organized with only volunteer effort. George Grenholm's experience and talents qualify him uniquely for this work in Delta County and help assure the success of the program."

Grenholm, a graduate of Mather High School, Munising, and an alumnus of Northern Michigan College and the University of Michigan, served as recreation director of Muskegon and Escanaba for several years and was more recently employed by Morley-Murphy Co. He has served with the American Red Cross and was with the Works Projects Administration and U.S. Forest Service and has had wide experience in organization of public campaigns.

The Delta Charities executive committee will meet on Friday to develop the directorate which will be formed of representatives of the member agencies of DUC, and comunities in the county.

Plant At Detroit Has $150,000 Loss In Fire And Blast

DETROIT (AP) — An explosion and fire did an estimated $150,000 damage today to research laboratories of Climax Molybdenum Co. of Michigan. A salesman who had just entered the building offices was injured.

Russell Burman, 40, of Detroit, was hospitalized with burns and bruises.

Burman told police when he opened an office door and switched on lights he was blown back into the street with his clothing afire. Passers-by helped him roll in the snow to put out his flaming clothes.

The explosion blew down a 150-foot section of the building's rear wall and fire did extensive damage to the laboratories, offices and warehouse section of the one-story structure.

Battalion Chief Alton Kjos said leaking gas was ignited by a spark from a wall switch which Burman turned on. Burman was the only person in the building at the time.

Kashmir Dispute Gets New Airing

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—India and Pakistan, deadlocked on the Kashmir issue after a third round of talks, will make another try starting March 9 to settle the future of the divided state.

Kashmir, in the Himalayas, is divided by a U.N. cease-fire line. India controls the most important two-thirds of the state.

Fraud Conviction Of UAW Official Reviewed By Board

DETROIT (AP) — The International Executive Board of the United Auto Workers scheduled a meeting today to review the conviction of UAW Vice President Richard T. Gosser in U.S. District Court at Toledo on fraud conspiracy charges. Gosser and two others were convicted by a jury Friday night of conspiring to defraud the government by obtaining confidential reports about Gosser's income tax returns. President Elected To New Five-Year Term In Paraguay ASUNCION, Paraguay, (AP) — Gen. Alfredo Stroessner was assured of a new five-year term as president today.

The 50-year-old artilleryman piled up leads as high as 8-1 in unofficial returns from Sunday's election in which women, voting for the first time in Paraguay easily outnumbered men.

Stroessner's opponent, lawyer Ernesto Gavilan, 65, never had a chance to end South America's only remaining dictatorship. His candidacy purportedly was arranged by Stroessner's Colorado party for a semblance of opposition.

Stroessner has been in power nine years.

Tenth Of Vote Cast Up To 11

GLADSTONE — About 10 per cent of the registered voters in Gladstone's four precincts turned out up to 11:30 a. m., today to cast ballots in the special election on the city's $300,000 revenue bond issue.

As of 11:30 a. m., only 245 of the 2,411 registered voters had been to City Hall to vote, but the largest count is expected from 5 to 8 p. m..

Votes cast as of 11:30 and the number of registered voters in the four precincts were: 1st Precinct — 70 cast out of 631 qualified to vote; 2nd Precinct — 62 of 538; 3rd Precinct — 61 of 512; and 4th Precinct — 70 of 730 voters.

The city seeks passage of a $300,000 bond issue, which would qualify Gladstone for a federal grant of a matching amount to finance a water utility improvement project.

The project would provide a new filtration plant; improvement of the present water distribution system to raise the pressure throughout the city; and metering of all water customers.

The federal grant would be made available through the Accelerated Public Works Act, designed for the purpose of taking workers off the unemployment rolls. If the vote is favorable and the Federal grant becomes available the project would be completed in a year.

Plastic Dentistry Curbs Are Urged

ANN ARBOR — One of the nation's top investigators of dental materials has urged dentists to remain "conservative" in their use of modern plastics for restoring their patients' teeth.

Dr. Floyd A. Peyton, head if the materials testing laboratory at the University of Michigan School Dentistry, said there is no one plastic that is ideal in all respects for the repair and replacement of human teeth.

However, he said, "There continues to be hope with increased knowledge of plastics . . . the dental applications will be improved accordingly."

Missing Tanker Remains Mystery

NEW YORK (AP) — The mystery of the disappearance of the sulphur-carrying tanker Marine Sulphur Queen continued to deepen over the weekend.

Did the 524-foot ship sink in the severe Atlantic storm that lashed the southeast coast with 40 m.p.h. winds, churning up 14-foot waves?

Are the tanker and her crew of 39 in Cuba? If so, was she hijacked or did she become disabled and drift into Cuban waters?

Six search planes were ordered to scan the southeast Atlantic from Cape Hatteras, N.C., to Fort Pierce, Fla., covering an area roughly 250 miles offshore. The Coast Guard cutter Sweetgum, last reported 200 miles off Jacksonville, Fla., also was ordered to take part.

Sunday 15 planes searched the area between Fort Pierce and Norfolk, Va., where the Sulphur Queen was scheduled to arrive last Thursday.

A report from one aircraft of a yellowish substance in the ocean about 190 miles east of St. Augustine, Fla., sent a small Navy ship, the USS Hoist, to the scene. The Hoist reported the yellow substance was floating seaweed.

White And Negro Churches Plan To Merge In Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — The last two Congregational churches left in Detroit's inner city — one white and the other Negro — took steps Sunday that possibly could lead to a merger.

The Rev. Dr. Russell N. Kerr, pastor of the First Congregational Church, called on his congregation to open its doors to the Negro Plymouth Congregational Church. The Negro church is facing relocation in the new Medical Center.

The offer was announced simultaneously by the Rev. Nicholas Hood to his Negro congregation. He said the announcement was received warmly.

"Perhaps we should start all over as one church," The Rev. Mr. Hood said.

Dr. Kerr said the official position of First Church, adopted a year ago, is that it "desires to be of service to those churches in this community that are about to lose their church homes because of urban renewal."

Four Sisters Die Under Ice Of Lake

BABYLON, N.Y. (AP) — Four sisters died under the ice on a lake but the oldest in the family—an 11-year-old girl—was saved.

Paul Barnard, 23, a Suffolk County policeman, saved the girl after hearing her scream as he fed ducks, his 2-year-old son by his side.

Frank Corridan, somewhat older than Barnard, was in another area of the lake fishing. His wife was at home, tending their 6-month-old twin daughters and 2-year-old son.

The five other children of the Corridans—all girls—frolicked on the ice 100 yards from where Barnard crouched coaxing the ducks.

Suddenly he heard a girl scream. He saw Lorraine Corridan, 11, clutch desperately at jagged ice forming a hole through which she had slipped.

Telling his son to stay put, Barnard plunged waist deep into the icy water.

Lorraine was screaming that her sisters were "under the ice—help. Help—"

After several tries and a return to shore for rope from his car, Barnard pulled the hysterical girl to safety.

Hours later the bodies of her four sisters were brought to the surface.

Dead were Louise, 3; Mary Ann 5; Patricia, 7, and Kathleen, 10.

Biggest Week In Cage Year Ahead For Peninsula Teams

MARQUETTE — Almost any way you look at it, this is the season's biggest week in Upper Peninsula High School basketball.

Three teams — Niagara, Ironwood and Ontonagon — can win conference championships. Three others — Escanaba, Brimley and Hermansville — have opportunity to clinch a share of their league crowds. And the two small-school quintets which fought for the U. P. Class D title last March — both again regarded as of "major caliber" — collide again.

Undefeated Champion and Ontonagon, both with 14-0 marks, play two games.

Champion, winner of 36 out of 37 games in the last two years, hosts Negaunee St. Paul Tuesday night, then goes to Brimley Friday. Coach Fred Boddy's Indians hold victories over both quintets, but it would surprise no one if either or both reversed the decision this time.

St. Paul, which forced Champion into overtime before losing back in December, has a 10-3 record. Its latest setback was to Trout Creek, the Nimrods scoring seven points in a four overtime period for a 56-49 victory. That game, incidentally, is the longest on record in the Upper Peninsula.

Brimley, after dropping a 58-47 decision at Champion in November, has been rolling unchecked, winning 12 straight games, mostly by big scores. Coach Jack Brighton's Bays will carry a 13-1 record into the Champion game.

Champion defeated Brimley twice last year, but after each won championships in regional tournaments the Bays gained a 46-41 triumph in the Class D state quarter-finals.

Brimley, following the clash with Champion, will take on Engadine. A victory over the Eagles will assure it of at least a tie for first in the Little Seven, regardless of what second-place Rudyard does.

Hermansville, whose two losses have been by a total of three points, closed out its Big Eight season at Channing. A victory will give the Redskins a 12-2 record, which Alpha can only match by winning its three remaining league tilts.

One of the most important games of the week will send Negaunee to Escanaba, and the result could do much to clear up the middled Great Lakes Conference race. If Negaunee wins, however, the championship chase to the wire will be one of the biggest wide-open affairs ever seen in the Peninsula. Besides Escanaba and Negaunee, four other teams still can be considered in the running for the title.

Ontonagon plays at Dollar Bay Friday night, then hosts Hancock Saturday. The Polar Bears will be wearing the Copper Country Conference crown if they take both games.

Stambaugh, finishing its Menominee Range Conference schedule with a 9-3 mark, will gain a share of the title if Norway can stop Niagara Tuesday night. But the Badgers (9-2) will hold the championship all by themselves if they win this one.

Ironwood plays an old rival, Ishpeming, on Friday, then returns home for a Saturday battle with Maple, Wis., that will mean the Michigan-Wisconsin crown for the Red Devils if they win. Ironwood would still have a chance to take the title at Bessemer the following week if it loses to Maple, a team that stopped the Devils, 56-48, early in January.

Champion of the Mid-Peninsula Conference, Nahma of the Central U. P. League and Mass of the Porcupine Mountain Conference are title-bound in their respective circuits, but must wait at least another week before they can nail up championship pennants.

Sports In Brief

PETOSKEY (AP)—Jack Campbell of Verona, N.Y., won the dog sled racing competition here Sunday as the Petoskey Winter Carnival completed its third week. Campbell finished the three-mile course between Petoskey and Harbor Springs in one hour, 39 minutes, 3½ seconds for a total time of 3 hours, 29 minutes, 59 seconds for Saturday's and Sunday's heats. Walter Barnhart of Belmont and Bill Nelson of Rochester were second and third, respectively.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hayes Jones of Detroit won his 39th straight victory in capturing the 60-yard high hurdles event of the Los Angeles Times Indoor Games over the weekend. Jones' time of 7.1 seconds equaled the meet record set in 1960 by Lee Calhoun, a veteran Olympic Games athlete.

Bearcats Eye Longest Win Streak In College Circles

By The Associated Press

Two-time national champion Cincinnati, already virtually assured of winning the Missouri Valley Conference Championship and the ticket to the NCAA tournament that goes with the title, is beginning to look ahead to its long, long range goal—the longest winning streak ever by a college team.

The Bearcats, boasting a 37-game winning streak—19 this season—after edging Bradley 65-61 Saturday night, have their eye on San Francisco's all-time string of 60 straight made in 1955-56.

Right now, Cincinnati is tied with North Carolina and Texas for the No. 3 spot. Seton Hall, from 1939 to 1941, and Long Island University, from 1935 to 1937, share the runner-up spot with 39 each.

If Ed Jucker's club continues at its present pace, it could hit the 60 mark just about this time next season.

But there are pitfalls all along the way. This Saturday's game at Wichita is one of them. For one thing, the Shockers never have been any pushover. They whipped the Bearcats early last season, 52-51, just before the current Cincinnati streak got under way. Further, they are 11-1 on their home court this year.

St. Louis, currently in second place with a 5-2 conference record against the Bearcats' 8-0, turned back Wichita 68-61 Saturday night and now has the inside track for a bid to the National Invitation Tournament in New York which usually goes to the runner-up.

Here is how the other major conferences shape up as the season heads into the home stretch:

Big Ten—Illinois, No. 4 in the weekly Associated Press poll on a 14-2 record, 6-0 in the league, crushed Michigan State Saturday 91-86 and appears headed for its first title in 11 years. Defending champion Ohio State and Minnesota both are 5-2. The Buckeyes defeated Wisconsin 94-70 and the Gophers stopped Purdue 80-73 Saturday.

Southeastern Conference — Defending co-champion Mississippi State is 7-1 in the league and 16-4 over-all after getting past Tennessee, 63-59. Auburn still is hanging on at 6-2 and 14-2. Auburn barely beat Georgia 70-67 in overtime Saturday night. Georgia Tech lost two in a row and now is tied for third with Kentucky at 6-3. Louisiana State shocked the Engineers 56-54 Saturday.

Atlantic Coast Conference—Duke, 10-0 in the league, 17-2 over-all and third-ranked behind Cincinnati and Loyola of Chicago, can clinch the regular-season championship with victories over Virginia Wednesday and Wake Forest Saturday. That would give the Blue Devils the No. 1 seeding in the conference tournament starting Feb. 28 in Raleigh. They just did get past North Carolina State Saturday, 56-55.

Southwest Conference — Texas clobbered its No. 1 rival, Southern Methodist 77-62, Saturday to run its conference record to 7-0. Rice now is in second place at 5-2.

Southern Conference — William and Mary upset West Virginia 75-72 Saturday. That gave the Mountaineers a 9-2 record in the league —which is somewhat of a moral victory for the rest of the teams. Rarely does West Virginia lose more than one game in the loop. The Mountaineers still seem assured of entering the conference tournament opening Feb. 28 in Richmond as the top seed.

Big Eight—Colorado swept past Kansas 62-52 Saturday night to run its league record to 6-1. But both Oklahoma State, which broke Iowa State's seven-game winning streak 54-50, and Kansas State, a 100-69 winner over Oklahoma, are hanging on at 5-2. Colorado still must play Oklahoma State and Kansas State, so things are far from settled.

Big Six—Washington, which defeated California for the second straight night Saturday 65-58 leads the pack by a half-game. Second place Stanford polished off UCLA 86-78.

Western Athletic Conference — Both Arizona State University and Brigham Young show identical 4-1 league records. They meet Saturday for the title. A-State defeated the Cougars earlier in the season 89-84.

Ivy League—Cornell is the surprise leader with a 5-2 league record compared to 5-3 each for the favorites, Princeton and Penn. The Big Red hammered Dartmouth 75-62 for its seventh in a row over-all Saturday.

Koufax To Test Finger Condition

By The Associated Press

The next few weeks may turn out to be the most important ones in the promising career of southpaw pitcher Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Koufax, who signed his 1963 contract Saturday, reports to the Dodgers' spring training camp in less than two weeks, anxious to test the condition of his left index finger.

In mid-July last year, Koufax was sidelined with a mysterious circulatory block that rendered him virtually useless the rest of the season. Before the ailment, the 27-year-old speedballer had a 14-5 record, 209 strikeouts and had hurled a no-hitter.

The Dodgers, who were leading the National League race at the time of Koufax' injury, lost the pennant to San Francisco in a playoff.

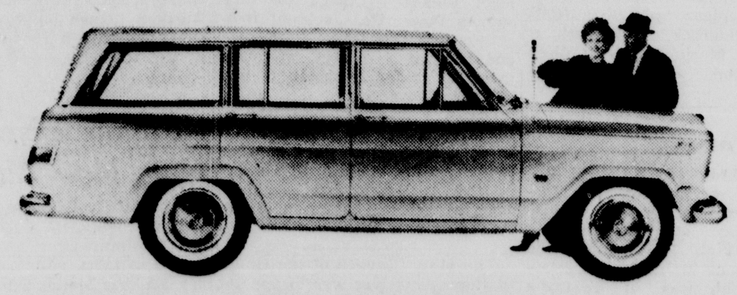

Koufax tried to come back in late September but his finger still bothered him. He wound up with a 14-7 record with 216 strikeouts and managed to win the earned run title with a 2.54 average.

Stylish Sandy signed for an estimated 32,000, receiving a raise of about $6,000. E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, the Dodgers' vice president, said that the condition of Koufax' ailing finger is encouraging and that circulation is normal.

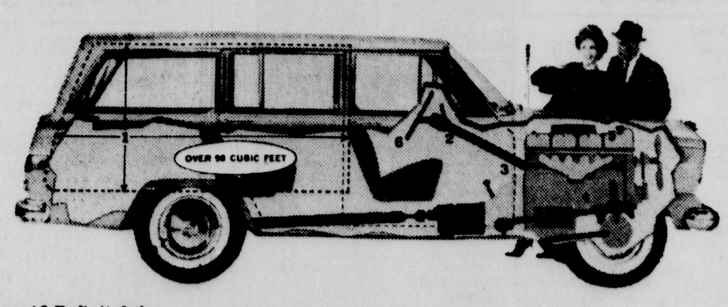

Three other Dodgers came to terms over the weekend. They were pitcher Johnny Podres and infielders Jim Gilliam and Don Zimmer.

The New York Yankees announced receipt of second baseman Bobby Richardson's contract and first baseman Jim Gentile came to terms with the Baltimore Orioles. Outfielders Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Felipe Alou of the San Francisco Giants returned their signed contracts.

Northern Stretches Home Court String

By The Associated Press

When it comes to winning basketball games, there's no Michigan college as dogged as Ferris, whose Bulldogs now lead the state in cage victories with 13.

Ferris had no trouble knocking off Lawrence Tech 98-75 Saturday night to retain its claim as Michigan s winningest cage team, with a 13-4 record.

Michigan's Big Ten schools, however, had more than their share of difficulties. Michigan had to stave off a late rally by sharpshooting Indiana to win 90-86. Michigan State, while giving fourth-ranked Illinois a scare in the final minutes, succumbed 91-86.

Detroit suffered its first loss in five games, bowing 70-68 to the University of Dayton, but Western Michigan defeated Kent State 64-51 in a Mid-American Conference game.

In other encounters, Northern Michigan dumped Aquinas 97-77; Eastern Michigan steamrollered Hillsdale 84-51; Hope downed Kalamazoo 74-62; Alma rolled over Olivet 101-76; Adrian beat Albion 74-65; Soo Tech took the measure of Detroit Tech 75-64; Indiana Tech bested Spring Arbor 63-54; John Carroll (Ohio) defeated Wayne State 66-48; Northwood Institute overwhelmed Cleary 106-66, and Detroit Bible edged Grace (Grand Rapids) Bible 53-52.

Northern Michigan's win at Marquette extended the Wildcats' home-court winning streak to 11 games. The loss stopped a winning streak at six games for Aquinas.

Eastern Michigan had four players in double figures, paced by Bill Abraham with 17 points, in the game at Ypsilanti. Eastern, which led 41-25 at halftime, posted its ninth victory against five losses. Hillsdale, whose high point man was Bill Baldwin with 11, now is 3-9.

MIAA league-leading Hope was paced by Jim Vanderhill's 21 points in posting its ninth league victory in as many games and its 11th in 17. Kalamazoo, paced by Dale Southworth's 13 points, lost its third game in eight MIAA outings and ninth in 17 season contests.

Bud Acton's 33 points, high for the MIAA this season, led Alma to victory — its sixth in eight league contests. The Scottts are 10-5 over all. Olivet, which hasn't won a game in 16 tries, was paced by Ed Donaldson's 25 points.

Adrian, trailing 39-38 at halftime, surged ahead to victory in the second half of its MIAA meeting with Albion. Adrian's Don Numbers paced the attack with 22 points.

Illinois Boasts Comfortable Lead In Big Ten Race

By The Associated Press

Fourth-ranked Illinois has a seemingly comfortable lead in the race for the Big Ten basketball title but if the Illini hope to waltz to their first championship in 11 years they're going to have to do it on the road.

Within the next 19 days, Illinois engages six Big Ten foes and five of the games are on the road. The critical test begins tonight at Wisconsin and continues at Indiana Saturday and at Purdue next Monday.

Illinois then comes home to face Wisconsin before taking to the road against Minnesota and Michigan. The team finishes out the schedule at Champaign against Northwestern and Iowa in the new 16,000-seat assembly hall.

With its 6-0 record, Illinois can afford to lose one and even two games since the closest pursuers are defending champion Ohio State and Minnesota with 5-2 records.

While Illinois is playing Wisconsin tonight, Minnesota goes to Indiana where the Hoosiers (3-3) figure to be exceptionally tough after three successive conference losses.

Indiana was tripped up at Michigan Saturday, 90-86. Illinois defeated Michigan State 91-86, Minnesota dropped Purdue 80-73, Ohio State dumped Wisconsin 94-70 and Iowa edged Northwestern 66-65 in a double overtime.

Iowa was the only visiting team to win Saturday. This sudden turnabout gave home teams an 18-17 advantage over visitors in Big Ten Conference competition this season.

This might have some significance in Saturday's full conference schedule with the top three teams being on the road. Illinois will be at Indiana in a regionally televised matinee, Minnesota is at Michigan State, Ohio State at Michigan, Northwestern at Wisconsin and Purdue at Iowa.

Track Champs Fail To Win

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Some of the world's top track and field stars traveled halfway around the globe for the Los Angeles Times indoor games — and some may wish they had stayed home.

U.S. high jumper John Thomas beat the Soviet Union's world record holder, Valery Brumel, and America's Jim Grelle surprisingly won going away from New Zealand's Peter Snell in the mile.

Only one visitor from faraway, Soviet broad jumper Igor Ter-Ovanesyan, managed to win a first place Saturday night at the Sports Arena before 13,459 fans.

Ter-Ovanesyan leaped 26 feet, 3 inches, making it two victories in a row over Ralph Boston, America's top broad jumper, whose best effort was 26 feet, ½ inch.

Thomas and Brumel each jumped 7 feet, ¼ inch but Thomas won first place because of fewer misses at the lower heights.

The long-striding Grelle got well out in front of Snell at the three-quarter mark and never was threatened. The winning time was a slow 4 minutes, 4.7 seconds.

It was the first defeat since 1961 in the mile for Snell, who has the world record of 3:54.4.

An unheralded star was Brian Sternberg, 19, a sophomore from the University of Washington who won the pole vault with a leap of 16 feet, ¼ inch, besting a select group in his first 16-foot effort.

Detroit Titans Suffer Setback

DETROIT (AP) — A cold-shooting University of Detroit basketball team fell back to the .500 mark Saturday night after losing a 70-68 decision to Dayton.

The Titans failed to score a basket during the last five minutes of the first half, and went 8 minutes, 41 seconds into the second half before Al Cech hit on a jump shot. Cech led all scorers with 28 points.

Detroit then pressed Dayton's deliberate offense, managed to pull within four points, 58-54, only to see Dayton pull ahead, 65-55, with 2 minutes, 53 seconds remaining.

Dayton's Chuck Izor scored two free throws with eight seconds remaining to ice the Flyers' 13th win against six defeats. Detroit now is 10-10.

Olympic Veteran Is Slalom Champ

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Olympic veteran Tom Corcoran spun down a 70-gate course twice in 1 minute 58.5 seconds Sunday to capture the slalom race in the first annual Vail Trophy Competition.

Corcoran nabbed top honors when the two favorites, Billy Kidd, Stowe, Vt., and Chuck Ferries of Denver University and Houghton, Mich., each missed a gate on their first runs down the tricky trail with a vertical drop of 500 feet.

Russell, Pettit Pass Milestones In Pro Basketball

By The Associated Press

Big Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics and Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks passed milestones over the weekend in their National Basketball Association careers.

Russell became the NBA all-time leader in rebounds with a total of 11,041 to 11,005 for Dolph Schayes of Syracuse. Pettit crossed the 17,000-point plateau with 36 against the Detroit Pistons Sunday. Schayes still is the all-time scorer with more than 20,000 points.

"The record is a big thrill, but we're pros and the pros pay off on championships,' Russell said after he had ousted Schayes with 28 rebounds against San Francisco Saturday and 19 against New York Sunday. The champion Celtics won both games at home, 118-112 over the Warriors and 129-123 over the Knicks.

Syracuse, the hottest club in the league right now, had beaten New York 122-116 in the first half of a doubleheader at Boston Saturday. The Nats moved back home Sunday and whipped San Francisco 139-115 for their fifth straight and 10th triumph in their last 12 games.

The defeat dropped San Francisco again to fourth in the Western Division. Detroit ended a six-game losing streak and regained third with a 102-95 victory at St. Louis despite Pettit's 36 points. Cincinnati, playing at home, beat the Los Angeles Lakers 124-107 in the other NBA game Sunday.

Johnny Kerr and Hal Greer, each with 26 points, led the Syracuse attack. In addition Kerr helped Len Chappell hold Wilt Chamberlain to 29 points, 15 below his league leading average. Bailey Howell, with 22 points, led Detroit as the Pistons broke a 79-79 tie with the Hawks in the last quarter.

Los Angeles wiped out a 21-point deficit on the hot shooting of Elgin Baylor and Dick Barnett to lead Cincinnati 73-72 before the Royals rallied themselves. Oscar Robertson, with 29 points, 12 in the last period, sparked the Royals. Baylor finished with 42 and Barnett with 27 for the Lakers.

No games are scheduled tonight.

Tech's Huskies Notch Victory

By The Associated Press

Michigan Tech trounced North Dakota 5-1 in a Western Collegiate Hockey Association match at Houghton over the weekend, but the University of Michigan had to settle for a 5-5 tie with Minnesota at Ann Arbor.

At Colorado Springs, meanwhile, Colorado College snapped a string of losses to Denver, upsetting the Pioneers 6-5.

North Dakota lost its goalie, Joe Lech, early in the game at Houghton and his substitute, Dudley Otto, proved no match for the sharpshooting of Dave Draper, who scored twice; George Hill, Scott Watson and Gary Begg.

North Dakota now is 6-3-1 in WCHA play and Tech 8-4-2.

Palmer Paces Phoenix Open

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, leading by a stroke, shares the spotlight with the weather as the Professional Golfers Association debated whether the final round of the $35,000 Phoenix Open could be played today.

The weather bureau forecast showers.

The wind-up was scheduled Sunday but a storm, striking 10 minutes after the sponsors' $7,000 rain insurance expired, forced the first postponement in the tournament's 28-year history.

A fan died of a heart attack after running to the clubhouse to escape the driving rain and hail. Wind uprooted a few trees, toppled a television equipment tower and flattened frame and canvas snackbars around the course.

The storm may have worked to the advantage of defending champion Palmer and to the disadvantage of Gary Player.

Palmer, with a 13-under-par 203 for the first three rounds, had played two holes in even figures when the action was stopped.

Player, starting the day tied with Jack Nicklaus at 204, had completed four holes in 2-under-par. Nicklaus, playing with Palmer, parred the first two holes.

Next behind golf's Big Three at the 54-hole mark came Don January and Gardner Dickenson at 205, Jay Hebert and Johnny Pott at 206 and Tony Lema and Rex Baxter Jr. at 208.

Palmer is seeking his third straight Phoenix Open title.

Television Spics Not Convincing

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The glamorous spy business is in a pretty sad fix, as far as television entertainment goes.

Take, for example, the unimaginative goings on during Sunday night's "Two Faces of Treason" on NBC.

It was a tale about a hesitant, unambitious Army corporal called to reluctant cloak and dagger duty because he resembled a deceased foreign agent—an agent who met his reward crossing against a red light.

In addition, the clever foreign agents identify each other by flashing laundry tickets. And the heads of both the Washington and New York apparatuses are really working for use. Finally, our reluctant hero gets away with his masquerade by pretending he has amnesia.

There's nothing more fascinating than a rip-roaring, fast-paced and slick espionage tale. But it's been a long, long time since we've seen one on television—except on the late late shows. They require special skill, the kind possessed by Eric Ambler, who can write them, and Alfred Hitchcock, who can direct them.

A West German ceramics firm which makes lawn figurines pokes a satirical finger at world leaders in its new line of "dwarfs." From left to right, the figurines were inspired by Russia's Khrushchev, holding a shoe reminiscent of his hammering 1960 United Nations performance; President Kennedy, whose youth is emphasized by big pants into which he has not yet grown; Germany's Adenauer, clutching a bouquet of home-grown roses, and France's DeGaulle, symbolizing his grip on France.

Recommended tonight: "Eisenhower on Lincoln: The Commander-in-Chief," NBC, 9:30-10 (EST) —a discussion of the Civil War president by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, interviewed at Gettysburg.

Congress has grown from an original membership of 65 in 1789 to its present 437.

Scientific Attitude Can Be Encouraged In Young

When your child asks a question you can't answer, do you say, "I don't know," and let it go at that?

Or do you add: "Lets find out."

If you don't, you should in order to encourage the curiosity and joy of discovery every child needs to become a questing, logical citizen.

And to help foster the curiosity of children—and the ability of parents to help their children—two departments of the National Education Association have published a new booklet called "You and Your Child and Science: A Handbook for Parents." Publishers are the Department of Elementary School Teachers and the National Science Teachers Association. The booklet was written by Glenn O. Blough, professor of education at the University of Maryland.

Science teaching in the elementary school, which could once revolve around studies of plants and animals, can no longer be limited, the booklet points out, for the world of children has become infinitely more complex than it ever was before.

"The world they see firsthand, the world they see on television, listen to on the radio, and read about, is broad and complex. It is as wide as from the atom to the rocket, from the earth to the farthest star."

But why start science in the elementary school? Why so early?

The booklet explains that science helps teach children how to solve all kinds of problems—not just scientific ones. It helps develop a scientific attitude of making decisions on the basis of facts. It helps them understand the world they live in, mostly through their own observations. And it helps them to broaden their interests and appreciation, not solely of scientific things.

How can parents help? The booklet lists these suggestions:

1 ● By actively listening to the child's comments and questions, and reacting to them.

2 ● By being interested in the child's activities and letting him know of your interest.

3 ● By helping him learn to observe the way things happen and to draw conclusioins from them.

4 ● By taking him with you, even on routine errands to the gas station or garden shop, or better yet, on special trips to the parks or library.

5 ● By providing materials for learning—perhaps an encyclopedia, or microscope, or guidebooks to animals and plants.

6 ● By checking up on the school science program, and backing plans for improvement.

7 ● By joining the child in scientific studies, helping him find the sources to answer his questions.

8 ● By inviting the child to join you at gardening, raising tropical fish, collecting rocks, or some other scientific pursuit.

9 ● By providing space for the child to work out his experiments, keep his collections, build his apparatus.

10 ● By practicing yourselves the scientific skills and attitudes—refusing to jump to conclusions, making decisions based on facts instead of prejudices—you want the child to learn.
